

Is this program right for me?

Do you strive to change your life but find yourself drawn to crime due to your substance use addiction? Do you lack the supportive structure that would enable you to overcome challenges and remain crime free? Do you lack the opportunities to improve and change your life such as a living wage job?

Have you made the commitment to remain crime free, but been lured back into crime for any of the above reasons? Could you benefit from the support of staff who are empathetic, non-judgmental and there to guide you in your journey to recovery and a better life? If so, are you willing to receive help?

Let Project ROAR help you.

Re-Entering Offenders Achieving Recovery

Serving Men and Women Exiting Bristol
County House of Corrections and
Barnstable County Sheriff's Office

What can I expect if I participate in the program?

ROAR provides services that promote long-term recovery from substance use and co-occurring disorders and reduce recidivism to crime.

An Individual Service Plan is tailored around the unique needs of each participant served. Each participant is encouraged and guided in driving the goals and objectives of his or her treatment plan as he or she progresses through different stages of recovery.

Services are available to men and women who will be transitioning from BCHOC or BCSO into the community within four months. Services will be provided in the correctional setting for up to four months and extend into the community as long as needed to achieve goals and long-term sobriety.

Every time I relapsed I'd end up committing crimes and found myself in jail again.

This time ROAR staff gave me support and helped me change.

I am in recovery and have a great support system.

~ Tonia

Who is eligible?

Eligible participants must have a substance use or co-occurring mental health disorder. Must be 18 years of age or older and within four months of release from Bristol or Barnstable County correctional facilities. Must have served a minimum of three consecutive months. May also be eligible if you have violated parole and are serving at least one month in a correctional institution.

How do I apply?

Referral forms can be obtained from re-entry staff at the facility. Once the referral form is completed by the potential participant, forms must be returned to re-entry staff for review by Project ROAR. Interested individuals may also be identified through Project ROAR outreach within the facility.
